W. H. Miller is Taken Suddenly

Also expected for several months, the announcement Sunday morning that William Henry Miller had suddenly been called created a pang of sincere sorrow to permeate to every corner of the city almost instantly and to all parts of the district and state. "Bill" Miller, as he was affectionately known to hundreds of old friends, was a man whose absence for all time was bound to cast a shadow over Easter Sunday observances and to bring regret from the bottom of every heart.

His hold on the people's confidence and friendship was probably unequalled in this community. His character was lovable in the extreme. He was the sympathetic friend to listen to any woe and his heart was so big as to encompass the trouble of the afflicted in every degree of society. . . .

Mr. Miller was seated at the breakfast table Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock when the final stroke occurred to carry him off. The end came suddenly and unexpectedly and was painless. It is a source of satisfaction to his friends that his death was peaceful and calm as his life was invariably. . . .

It was February, 1912, two or three days before his aged father passed away at the old homestead in the west part of the county, that Mr. Miller suffered the first stroke of apoplexy. Altho the first warning of the impending affliction it was severe enough to denote that the break in his life had come. . . .

Mr. Miller was born September 28, 1856, on the old homestead of the family a mile south of Millerville. His parents were Rev. and Mrs. Andrew Miller, descendants of a Dutch family that emigrated to the territory from North Carolina at the beginning of the nineteenth century. He was one of three sons and a daughter born to Rev. Miller's union with Sophia Miller. . . .

W. H. Miller was brought up on the old farm and sent to school at Millerville until 17 years of age. He then went to the Normal school for two or three years and taught a year or two afterwards. He then decided upon the law profession and set out for Columbia to attend the state university law school. He graduated there and returned to Jackson to practice. His open-hearted sympathy for the unfortunate soon won him a large and lucrative practice. He married Miss Elizabeth Welling and his success as a lawyer, a banker and a prominent citizen was assured. . . . —Cape Republican.

Mr. Miller had a host of friends in our county, as well as all over east Missouri, who will be sorry to know of his death. His remains were laid to rest at Jackson Tuesday. Dr. C. M. Witmer of this city was an honorary pall bearer and accompanied by Attorneys J. W. Caldwell and W. K. Chandler and Mrs. J. H. Wicecarver, attended the funeral, as did Attorney and Mrs. W. M. Morgan.

We are reporting several new names that have been added to the list of the Farm Boy fund since last week, which is certainly very gratifying to the friends of the movement. Now we know there are others that want to assist in this good work and we trust they will send in their subscriptions without delay, as the time is growing shorter and will necessarily expire after a while and there is no way to shorten the time or lessen the amount by waiting but it will give those who have change of the matter more trouble and take more of their time. We feel sure there are enough of our people who are willing to assist in this worthy enterprise to subscribe the amount and trust they will not put it off, but make their subscriptions without further delay.

Glen Allen News

The weather has been cool and it looks like most of the fruit has been killed.

Herman P. Ossig recently bought a farm from G. W. Burns.

A Mr. Price of Salem transacted business here Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

John Berry recently purchased a manure spreader from Merchant J. A. Berry of our town.

Mrs. Elery Zimmerman and children visited relatives and friends at Lutesville Thursday and Friday. T. J. Gregory of the Myers settlement transacted business in Glen Allen Thursday.

E. A. Murray and Henry Miller of Lodge were here on business Thursday.

Mrs. C. H. Cooper moved to Harvill, where her husband is agent for the L. M. & S. railroad.

T. D. McGregor was elected a member of our school board. The present board is F. H. Schweearing, T. D. McGregor and J. H. Zimmerman. The free book proposition was voted down.

There is a move on foot to secure a rural high school at this place. If we had such an institution our young people could secure a good education at home at comparatively no expense. Lets all boost for a rural high school.

Charles Gibbs of Gipsy was on our streets Monday.

There is an epidemic of bronchial pneumonia raging among our hogs. Some herds have been wiped out and others greatly reduced. Every owner should establish a quarantine, clean up and disinfect the premises. A balanced ration should be fed in order to raise the vitality of the hogs that they may be able to resist the disease germs when exposed.

W. H. Murray took the examination for carrier of r. f. d. l. which starts from Glen Allen May 1.

Marion McDaniel transacted business here Friday.

Our merchants are doing a good business. Over 100 wagon loads of cross ties were brought to Glen Allen Friday. Verily, verily Wilson times are good!

James Fowler's latest invention is a wire stretcher. When perfected it will be the simplest, easiest to operate and one of the most indispensable articles on the market.

Our town election last Tuesday passed off quietly. Our new board is J. A. Berry, H. E. Richards, James Fowler, R. Smith and W. T. Oster. There is much work to be done and it is to be hoped our citizens will take great interest in these civic improvements. We have the resources, so let's get busy.

Reuben McCormick, a good farmer of the Flatwoods, greeted friends and transacted business in our town Friday.

Price Whitener of Castor was shopping in town Friday.

Homer Richards was reelected principal of our schools and Miss Lulu Belchamber was elected assistant. This is Mr. Richards' fourth year as principal of our school.

W. H. Skaggs, the Rawleigh medicine man, is doing a good business despite the bad roads caused by the heavy rains.

George Burns recently exchanged horses with Mr. Cozean of near Marquand. He now has a good Percheron mare—the kind our country needs.

Herman Ossig is preparing to erect some substantial buildings on the farm he recently bought from G. W. Burns.

J. H. Zimmerman will soon have a car load of tiling laid. His land, which was never known to be dry at this time of year before, is dry and mellow now. Oscar Zimmerman, who recently tiled the old homestead, now has one of the most productive farms in the country. It will grow almost anything.

J. W. Dunn of Marble Hill transacted business in Glen Allen one day this week.

The Bank of Glen Allen, which is backed by fifty-two of Bollinger county's best citizens, is doing a good business. It is conservative, fully insured and deserves due consideration.

Rev. Eaker preached two good sermons at the M. E. Church, South, Sunday morning and evening. The passing elder will preach here Saturday and Sunday, April 25 and 26. Sacrament will be administered April 26. Special music by the choir.

Saturday night a good free commercial club was organized at Glen Allen for the Glen Allen district. Elery Zimmerman was elected chairman and C. C. Zimmerman secretary. This club will become a member of the Federation of Commercial Clubs of Southeast Missouri and will have an exhibit at the next Federation meet, showing what can be raised in the Glen Allen district. This club has arranged for a poultry show, a corn show and a farmers' institute to be held here this fall. They have a committee working on mail route No. 2; on a rural high school and a special road district for the Glen Allen district. They will look after all matters that will better our community and citizens in any way. This move will offset every farmer in this vicinity, making his surroundings better, opportunities greater and will raise the value of every acre of land in the district. Watch us grow and look for a full report after our next meeting. Our charter will be open for some time and we ask every citizen to add us in boosting the Glen Allen district.
